A fire can cause extensive damage to your home, leaving behind a lot of cleanup work. But you need not worry about just the visible, charred remnants of the fire. Smoke can infiltrate walls, upholstery, and hidden corners, causing lasting damage if not thoroughly cleaned. In these challenging times, you need a reliable fire smoke damage cleanup service to help restore your home.

Step 1: Assessing the Fire & Smoke Damage

A thorough damage assessment is the first step in any fire and smoke damage cleanup operation. Our team will inspect your property to determine the extent of the fire, soot, and smoke damage. This step is crucial in formulating a clean-up and restoration plan tailored to your home's specific needs.

Step 2: Board-Up and Roof-Tarp Service

Your property may have missing walls, windows, or a damaged roof after a fire. Bio Clean of Utah can provide board-up and roof-tarp services to protect your home from further damage caused by weather or unauthorized entry.

Step 3: Water Removal & Drying

---

If water was used to extinguish the fire, the resulting water damage could compound the existing issues. Our team will promptly remove any standing water and use dehumidifiers and other professional-grade equipment for thorough drying.

Step 4: Smoke & Soot Removal

We utilize specialized techniques and equipment for smoke and fire damage cleaning, targeting the pervasive smoke and soot particles that, if left untreated, can etch, pit, or cause other forms of corrosion and damage.

Step 5: Cleaning & Sanitizing

---

After water and soot removal, our team will clean, sanitize, and disinfect all restorable items affected by fire damage. We're also equipped to clean and deodorize upholstery, carpets, and other fixtures.

Step 6: Restoration & Repairs

---

The final step in the fire and smoke damage restoration process is restoring your home to its pre-fire condition. This could involve minor repairs, such as installing new carpet and painting, or it could entail major repairs, such as reconstructing damaged areas.

Step 7: Consultation & Prevention

Lastly, we provide consultation on preventing future fires and sustaining a safe, fire-resistant environment. We value your safety and aim to equip you with the knowledge needed to protect your property.
